SUPER-PLANE MAKES FLIGHT IN TEN HOURS

Speed Pilot, Three Aids Look Like 'Strange Creatures' as They Land in N. Y.

BEST MARK BY HALF HOUR

New Oxygen Masks Win Praise From Sportsman Who Flew at 17,000 Feet.

(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Looking like strange creatures from another planet with oxygen mask contraptions strapped across their faces, Howard Hughes, record 'round-the-world flier, and a crew of three completed a speedy sub-stratosphere flight across the continent today and hung up a new record for transport planes.

The millionaire pilot landed his eight-ton plane in which he streaked around the world at Floyd Bennett Field at 7:56 a. m. (EST) after taking off more or less secretly from Glendale, Cal., at 9:21 p. m. (EST) last night.

Better by Half Hour.

The non-stop hop took 10 hours, 35 minutes, clipping more than a half hour from the previous record for transport planes set by Tommy Tomlinson.

Hughes' own transcontinental record for speed planes of seven hours, 28 minutes, which he set in a stratosphere flight Jan. 19, 1937, still stands.

On today's flight Hughes was accompanied by Harry Connor, who navigated him around the world; Glenn Odekirk, superintendent of his aircraft plant, and Charles Perrine, radio operator.

Badly in need of a shave, his trousers baggy and wearing a battered brown fedora, Hughes said the flight was not intended to shatter any records but merely to try out the new oxygen masks and other special equipment.

Praises Oxygen Device.

Hughes had unqualified praise for the new oxygen device, invented by Dr. Richard Lovelace, Mayo clinic surgeon. He said the mask has proved very valuable and predicted its use in the future for air-

Plans New Expose of U. S. Communism

The Dies un-American activities committee at Washington today planned to expose the innermost secrets of the Communist party by calling as a witness a man who is said to have aided in the formation of the party in the United States. Before reaching this testimony, however, the committee planned to delve further into the charge that Communism virtually rules the WPA theater project. The investigation once more brought government officials into the picture as Rep. Noah M. Mason of Illinois, shown above at the left, took the floor and accused eight federal officials of membership in the American League for Peace and Democracy, a group which is charged with being a "front" for Communists in America. At their right is Frederick A. Silcox, chief of the Forest Service, who is one of the eight accused officials. Miss Mary Anderson, (insert), director of the federal Woman's Bureau, is another official named.

Dog Brings Back Pet Rabbit

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. — (AP) — Six-year-old Blair Hildebrand's pet rabbit dug out of its pen and ran away while the boy was ill.

Alarmed because their son was worried, Blair's parents searched three days for the bunny. As a last resort they put "Ted," a 15-year-old hound, on the cold trail.

Two hours later "Ted" returned, carrying the wriggling cottontail carefully in his mouth.

UNION SCHOOL JOINS CITY'S ELECTION CALL

Rural District Also Asking Bond Issue Vote Sept. 20 for $138,000 Building.

The Union Rural school district in Weller and Franklin townships today had asked the state tax commission for authority to hold a special election Sept. 20 on a $75,900 bond issue for a new $138,000 centralized school building.

If authorized by the commission, the election will be held on the same day on which the Mansfield board of education will re-submit its $550,000 school bond proposal. There would be no conflict in the voting, however, since the districts do not overlap.

Cause of Scrap.

The Union board's proposal for a new school building, calling for a PWA grant for $62,100, is the plan which resulted in the filing of malfeasance charges against Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, several weeks ago. Four of the five members of the board accused Robinson of filing an application for the PWA grant without authority from the Union board.

Hearing on the charges before the county board of education is set for Aug. 27.

The Union board today had filed its request for federal funds with the regional PWA office at Columbus. The proposed bond issue, like the Mansfield schools' program, must be voted by Oct. 1, or the federal government will not allocate funds for the building program in 1938.

The Union board has taken an option on a 16-acre tract on route 13, about one and a half miles

5,000 OTHERS CAPTURED ON SPANISH FRONT

Franco Opens Up Intensive Week-End Offensive in Barcelona Campaign.

TAKES PERSONAL CHARGE

Insurgent General to Lead Onslaught; Orders All Aids on Duty.

(By Associated Press)

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier)—Spanish Insurgent dispatches said today that 5,000 government militiamen were captured and additional thousands killed as Generalissimo Francisco Franco opened what apparently was a carefully planned general offensive.

The insurgents attacked in force on the Ebro river front, south of Gandesa, where they reported the first line of government trenches in the Pandos mountains had been occupied and the second line was being attacked today.

Gives 'Wipe Out' Order.

Bulletins from Barcelona said, however, the government lines had held against the assault and had not lost an inch.

Observers believed Franco had given orders to his field commanders to wipe out the government's Ebro salient this week-end so a combined campaign against Barcelona and Valencia could start from consolidated positions.

First indications that a major offensive was near came yesterday when insurgent authorities canceled passes for exit to France as they had done frequently in the past before big drives.

Insurgent military leaders confirmed later that Franco himself would lead a new offensive.

Several insurgent officers who have been on leave were recalled to duty.

Large-scale troop movements also were underway. Italian shock divisions and Navarrese units, the cream of Franco's forces, were being shifted to the Catalan front, while Moorish reinforcements took places in central and eastern Spain.

Warplanes In Air.

Kallmerten Quits, Field For Dem 'Boss' Wide Open

Withdraws as Candidate for Executive Chairman as Committee Meets Today; G. O. P. Confers Tonight.

Announcement today by E. B. Kallmerten, Martin L. Davey gubernatorial campaigner, that he will not be a candidate for reelection as chairman of the Richland county Democratic executive committee left the selection of a party "boss" open for speculation.

Kallmerten's statement came a few hours before a scheduled organization meeting of the county Democratic central committee at 2 p. m. today at the courthouse.

Committeemen at today's session will select a central committee chairman to succeed M. W. Conley, who announced recently that he would not be a candidate for reelection to that post.

Expect Recommendation.

The executive chairmanship will be decided next week, party leaders said, although a recommendation for the job probably will be made at today's session.

The county Republican central committee will meet at 7:30 p. m. today at the courthouse to name its chairman and map campaign plans.

Democratic leaders saw G. A. Baer, former executive chairman, and Atty. John C. O'Donnell as logical successors to Kallmerten and Conley.

Baer, who headed the Sawyer-for-governor committee in the county in the primary campaign, has said he would "accept" the central committee leadership, "if chosen," and would back O'Donnell for executive chairman.

When three youths "flirted" from an automobile near her office she checked up, found the license number belonged to another car.

Police arrested one of the trio. They found he was wanted in Los Angeles on three criminal charges.

EXAMINER HITS RURAL SCHOOLS

Coal Purchase at Lucas Criticized; Richland Findings Total $4,189.

Ninety-eight findings against individuals and business firms in 13 school districts were returned today by the state bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices in a report of examination of Richland county rural school accounts.

The 120-page report, submitted to County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott, lists total findings of $4,189, of which restitution has been made on accounts amounting to $548. The inspection covered the period from Oct. 16, 1935 to Nov. 30, 1937.

Re-districting of the county's rural schools in the past two years resulted in a number of findings against board of education clerks who neglected to renew their bonds when transferred from one board to another.

The largest finding was for $1,060, returned against the Equity Exchange at Lucas for alleged illegal sale of coal to the Monroe township school board. Purchase of supplies from the firm was illegal, the report said, because Emery Culler and W. S. Berry, members of the school board, also

UPHOLD GUARDS

Probers Say They Acted in Line of Duty in Killing 4.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. — (AP) — A special committee of the Texas prison board decided today that Robert Parker and other Eastham prison farm employes acted in line of duty in killing four prisoners who tried to escape the farm.

"The preponderance of evidence shows that Parker and other guards and possemen were acting in line of duty in all the violent deaths," said S. D. Chestnutt of Kennedy, chairman of the special committee.

Parker, whom Sheriff Archie Maples of Houston county had charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of John Hendrix Frazier, 21, Dallas convict attempting to escape, was nobilled by the grand jury at Crockett.

Payments By Mail Flood Tax Office On Deadline Day

A huge stack of mail, representing hundreds of dollars in real estate tax payments, overflowed County Treasurer John E. Kolb's desk today and scores of taxpayers jammed his office to get under the payment deadline, set at 3:30 p. m. this afternoon.

Receipts had mounted to $431,707 this morning, and the treasurer forecast that total collections for the period just ending would reach, or exceed his goal of $570,000.

Collections yesterday amounted to $56,587 for the second best day since the collection period began early in July, and today's receipts were expected to approach that figure. Collections Thursday totaled $66,683.

Six outside collectors in the county have yet to report their collections, and that total, plus the mail receipts, is expected to make the half-year collection "satisfactory," according to Kolb.

Fleeing Jews Aided By Secret 'Railroad'

1,000 Smuggled Into Switzerland In Manner Like Slaves Found Refuge In Northern U. S.; Movement Baffles Swiss Guards.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—More than 1,000 Austrian Jews, it was estimated today, have been smuggles into Switzerland in the past month by the modern version of the Scarlet Pimpernei and the underground railway.

Three hundred Swiss frontier guards are trying to cope with the problem and all available police in the northern Swiss cantons have been mobilized to help. France reinforced her guards at border points. Germans, too, promised increased vigilance.

The migration has been helped by a secret organization of Germans and Austrians who, with earlier fugitives, supplied money and shelter for fugitives on the way to the borders, much as colored slaves were aided secretly to reach the Canadian frontier by the underground railway in American Civil war days and as Frenchmen escaped during the French revolution.

Take Desperate Chances.

Jews, fearing for their future under the Nazi regime, frequently are willing to take desperate chances to get away. Emigration from Germany has become increasingly difficult as a result of international border regulations and German and foreign laws, despite the expressed Nazi determination that they must go.

The "underground" border traffic is particularly active near the Swiss town of Diepoldsau, whose limits extend five miles along the former Austrian border.

Jewish men and women, young and old and in every walk of life, have found this area suitable for fleeing Germany. Crossing the frontier is much more difficult in other places where the Rhine forms a natural boundary and is dangerous because of whirlpools and treacherous currents.

They have arrived in Switzerland practically penniless, and with nothing but the clothes on their backs.

Thieves 'Enjoy' Picnic Of Anti-Theft Group

NEWKIRK, Okla. — (AP) — Thieves fully enjoyed the two-day outing of the Newkirk anti-theft association. For instance, association members held a picnic—after which Warren Hardy reported his watch was stolen. A golf tournament—after which Bill Leighty reported the theft of a set of borrowed woods.

ASKED TO LEAVE

Britian Arrested in Germany on Espionage Charge.

BERLIN —(AP)— Capt. Thomas Kendrick, an official of the British passport office in Vienna, was arrested because proof had been established that he was conducting espionage activities, it was announced officially today.

The announcement said the British ambassador, Sir Neville Henderson, had been requested to see that Captain Kendrick leaves Germany at the earliest possible moment.

In London, the British government understood Captain Kendrick, who was arrested by German secret police Wednesday near the Swiss frontier, already had been released. Officials there said he was expected to leave Vienna tomorrow or Monday.

Canton Man Named Manager Of Film House Nearly Completed.

Mansfield's newest theater, the Park, which is being constructed on the corner of South Park and Diamond street, will be formally opened Thursday, Sept. 15, George A. Delis, district manager of the Interstate Theaters, incorporated, announced today.

Ralph H. Shaffer, manager of the Palace theater at Canton, has been assigned to take over the management of the new theater. The rest of the staff, about 15 persons, will be Mansfield people.

The 1,400-seat house will be the fifth motion picture house in Mansfield, and will operate with a policy of two changes a week and double-feature bills.

SETS NEW MARK

Wooderson Clips Four-Tenths of Second Off Half-Mile Record.

LONDON—(INS)—Stanley Wooderson, slender British bank clerk, today set a new world record for the half mile which he ran in 1:49.2, clipping four-tenths of a second off the mark made by the Californian, Elroy Robinson, last year. Wooderson made his mark today at the Motspur park athletic meeting.

FIGHTS DEATH

Conductor's Wife Shot, Suspect Surrenders.

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Shot down in a dramatic street scene, Mrs. Emita McCormick Krueger, wealth Chicago society matron and wife of Karl Krueger, internationally famous orchestra conductor, was near death today.

Charles E. McDonald, estranged husband of Mrs. Frances McDonald, a governess in the Krueger home, surrendered to police in connection with the shooting. He mistakenly believed, police said, that Mrs. Krueger had advised Mrs. McDonald to divorce him.

BUSINESS CLIMBS

C. of C. Characterizes Improvement As 'Exceptional.'

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The U. S. chamber of commerce reported contra-seasonal improvement in business, which it characterized as "exceptional." Emphasizing that business activity normally eases downward at this time the chamber said the trend now is upward.

Further improvement during September, the chamber said, appears almost certain "unless the politicians manage to thwart them."

31 Per Cent Cut Requested In County's 1939 Wheat Acreage

Richland county farmers had been asked today to reduce their 1939 wheat acreage 31 per cent under this year's acreage to comply with the federal soils conservation program.

The county allotment was set at 25,166 acres as compared with approximately 36,500 acres produced this year. Guy Taylor, chairman of the county conservation committee, said.

County farmers will not be required to participate in the reduction plan, although individual allotment figures have been mailed to all of the 3,000 wheat growers in the county, Taylor asserted.

About 40 per cent of the county's farmers participated in the program this year, receiving an average of $60 each, he added.

Taylor pointed out that farmers who complied with the plan this year will receive nearly $1 a bushel for their wheat, while producers who disregarded the federal program are receiving 60 cents a bushel, about half of last year's price.

Payments are made on the basis of 12 cents per bushel. If the participating farmer cuts his acreage below the government's allotment, he receives an additional "bonus" payment of 12 cents per bushel.

City, Township Act To Borrow $129,000 To Meet Relief Costs

City Solicitor Marion D. Ward today was preparing legislation, to be presented at a special meeting of city council called by Mayor Claude . . Hunter for Tuesday night, authorizing borrowing of $125,000 to finance the city's relief burden for the balance of this year.

At the same time Madison township trustees acted to borrow $4,600 under a similar plan.

This was decided upon at a meeting of city officials with Madison township trustees and county commissioners yesterday afternoon.

The plan as outlined today by Assistant County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz calls for the issuance of notes against 70 per cent of the anticipated collection of delinquent taxes which in turn will be used to match funds borrowed from the state through the issuance of notes against 90 per cent of anticipated state taxes.

Under the borrowing plan, according to Ward, the city will be able to obtain approximately $60,000 to $70,000. This will pay off a $40,000 debt in food bills incurred in the past four months.

Meanwhile Madison township officials were "stumped" on their problem of raising enough funds to provide for their indigent cases. Through the borrowing process the township will gain a maximum of only $4,600 and they are already more than $5,000 in arrears in payment of their relief debt at present.

BISMARK, N. D. — (INS) — Sentenced to life imprisonment for a crime which he blamed on "the devil," the Rev. Heio Janssen, 54, today was grateful for his speedy removal to the state penitentiary here, which shielded him from a menacing crowd.

The Lutheran minister was hustled out of Stanton a few hours after he confessed poisoning Alma Kruckenburg, 16, and setting fire to his 10-room parsonage in a vain effort to conceal the crime.

TWO WORLDS + + +

By MAUD McCURDY WELCH

CHAPTER 21.

"Julian, wait another minute," Noel pleaded, hating herself for the abjectness of her voice. But if Julian went off like this, so cold and angry, she would probably never see him again. "Listen, Julian," she heard herself pleading, "if I give you my solemn promise not to go back to the Peacock, if I get another situation—"

"Can you find another one as exciting where all the men will fight each other to make love to you, to dance with you?" he demanded.

This was the last straw. A sudden wave of anger rushed over her. "Why do you have to be so insufferable? Do you want to make me hate you?" she cried.

"Perhaps that would be best," Julian said cooly. "If we could manage to work up a good, healthy hate toward each other, instead of this — this constant pull—" he stopped, as if unable to say more.

* * *

FATE HAS a bag of curious tricks. It was the morning after the bitter quarrel with Julian that Noel found the situation as governess in the Garwood home was open again.

Laurie told her there was another ad in the paper, and that she felt sure Noel could get the place this time.

Noel was still in bed. She had slept very little, and her face showed the strain of the sleepless hours.

Noel stood there, her head drooping against the pillar. The anger he had aroused in her had turned to one vast agonizing pain. No matter what he might say, or how he hurt her, her love for him rose up and triumphed over every other feeling.

And then Julian delivered the last crushing blow. "You may not know it, but I was actually beginning to believe that your coming into the hard, workaday world was taking on the nature of a noble experiment. I was beginning to see you differently, as more human, more real. I believed you were actually learning something about life and living."

He stopped and gave a short bitter laugh. "It only goes to prove how a man can fool himself into believing the things he most wants to believe, when his common sense and good judgment tells him a different story."

With that he walked to the car and drove off.

Somehow, Noel stumbled into her room undressed as if in a daze, and lay down beside the sleeping Laurie. Then all at once her slender body was shaken with sobs.

* * *

Laurie took one look at her and said, "You need some coffee." She busied herself with making it, while Noel got up and began dressing.

"How's your heel?" Laurie asked when the coffee was ready.

Noel hadn't even looked at it. "Seems to be all right," she said listlessly.

"Doctor Paige is a good doctor," Laurie observed; then said, "now drink your coffee and eat some toast."

Noel sat down in her slip, and pinned her curls back from her pale face. "What'll you do when you don't have me to fuss over?" she asked with an attempt at a smile.

"I don't know," Laurie said slowly. "If you get that governess place, you'll have to live out there, won't you?"

"Yes, I suppose so." Noel was thinking how very strange it seemed that she and Julian should have quarreled because she had let him believe she had a governess situation, and now here was the very place open again. And ten chances to one she would get it this time.

* * *

It was a contrary world.

In less than an hour the two girls were out on the street, Laurie going to the De Luxe, Noel to catch a bus for Belvedere place. She could afford bus fare now. In fact she was almost a plutocrat. She had even managed to buy two $1.98 voile dresses from the basement of a department store, with Laurie helping her make the selections, and still had nearly $5 in her purse. Whether Julian would believe her or not, she considered that was making progress.

To get away from Luigi's, from all the sordid hatefulness of the place, seemed too wonderful to be true. She would miss Chris, of course. But she couldn't be sure that he would ever come back to the Peacock anyway, for he had been angry when he had turned away and left her with Julian. She was sorry, for Chris was really a darling. She thought unhappily that it would perhaps have been better if Chris had taken her home last night, for then she and Julian wouldn't have quarreled so bitterly.

Once again Noel found herself facing the big stone house on Belvedere. She didn't make the mistake of going again to the imposing front door, with its graceful fan-light, but walked around the flagged walk to the side entrance. She was admitted by the butler, stiff-necked as usual, whose only recognition of her was a slight gleam in his eyes. Once again she followed him to the over-furnished, flower-filled room and faced the blond woman with the slightly protruding blue eyes.

"Hitchens, hasn't this person been out here before?" Mrs. Garwood demanded.

The butler coughed. "Yes, modom, she applied once before. But if I may say so, modom, it might be well to give her a chance. It's not so easy to get a girl to stay out here, so far from the bright lights, as you might say."

The woman glared at him. "Tell her to go. She didn't—have no—she didn't have references even before."

"Oh, but I have this time," Noel said eagerly. She had hoped so much to get this place. Was she going to be turned away for the second time?

"I don't want you," the woman said, turning her face away pettishly.

Noel turned to leave. Then she heard Hitchen's voice. "It'd be better, modom, to take her name and address—just in case—er—"

Noel remembered giving her name and address before. She supposed it had been lost. Or was this the usual procedure?

She was instructed to write down her name, address and the name of her reference. Noel wrote it down accordingly, giving Frankie's name as reference. Frankie, of course, wouldn't care.

Then Noel laid the paper down on a table and once again followed the butler to the side entrance, where he said as before, "Your trouble is in being too pretty—just is I said."

Then the door was shut, and Noel was again walking around the flagged walk, which was now bordered with lovely purple iris. Suddenly she heard hurried footsteps in the house and a voice—two voices in fact, calling her name. "Miss Doran—oh, I say, Miss Doran—come back, please."

Noel stopped and turned around. The butler was hurrying out in the yard. Mrs. Garwood stood in the side door, peering out anxiously.

* * *

When Hitchens reached her, panting just a little, he said, "Mrs. Garwood has changed her mind. She wants you to have the job."

Noel gazed at him incredulously. "But I thought—"

Then she was going back into the house and Mrs. Garwood was waiting in the little hallway which opened out the side door. She was smiling. "I just thought—I mean—I'll give you the place after all. You go and get your things and—and come back at once. And oh, yes, I'll pay you $15 a week and your board and room. And I'll give you Wednesday off and part of Sunday too. Now, ain't—I mean, isn't that fair enough for anybody?" Her voice held a cajoling note.

"Its satisfactory," Noel said calmly, still puzzled as to why the woman had changed her mind so suddenly.

* * *

When she left a few minutes later, everything was arranged. On the way back to the Court street house to pack up her few belongings, Noel reflectetd again on the strange inscrutable ways of fate. If she could only have gotten this place before Julian lost faith in her! Now that she had it wouldn't make any difference to him.

But anyway, Noel's thoughts went on, she could live with more dignity now. The work wouldn't be hard, and she felt that she would have no trouble in loving the little pale-faced girl whose face she had glimpsed from the window, even though the child's mother did not seem to be an agreeable person. She was probably nouveau riche, Noel decided, which would account for her queerness.

* * *

So Noel went back feeling more confident of the future, and yet conscious of a little pang when she thought of leaving Laurie. Still she would see her often on her days off, which would help.

And then upon arriving at her room, she found the place in confusion. Mrs. Blarsom was there in her none-too-clean gingham apron, and on the bed lay a still figure, over which a doctor bent with as tethoscope.

It was Laurie. She had collapsed at work, and had been brought home unconscious.

Noel stood there pale and frightened, while the white-haired doctor administered a hypodermic, and then sat quietly holding Laurie's hand, while he waited for it to take effect.

At last there was a faint tinge of color in Laurie's cold, white face, and a tiny sigh came from her lips.

The doctor rose and looked about him. His eyes fell on Mrs. Blarsom in her soiled apron and untidy hair. "We have a very sick girl here. Better notify her people at once."

"She hasn't any people," Mrs. Blarsom snapped. "And you might as well know it, she hasn't any money either. So the sooner you get her to a charity hospital, the better."

The doctor regarded her gravely over his spectacles which were attached to his coat with a long black ribbon. "I would not take the risk of moving her, not even in an ambulance." He looked around again. "Isn't there someone who will take the responsibility?"

Noel spoke up at once. "I will, doctor. I'll see that she has everything she needs."

It was perhaps a little reckless in Noel to make such an impulsive promise considering her own circumstances, but she had spoken with a quiet determination which gave the doctor confidence that she would do as she said.

192 Voters Decided School Bond Issue.

WHEN Mansfield voters, by a majority of 1,970, expressed themselves as favorable to a $550,000 bond issue for the purpose of carrying through a million-dollar public school betterment program in this city, it became evident that a large percentage of the people of this city realize the urgent need for improvement of Mansfield's public school facilities.

With 5,546 votes "for" the bond issue and 3,576 against, it is seen that the proposal fell short of 65 per cent by only 383 votes—which means that 192 voters were the actual deciding factor, as this number of votes turned from "against" to "for" would have carried the issue.

Revelation that many ardent supporters of the bond issue had failed to register or transfer, together with more general understanding in all parts of the city that children in every section will benefit by the planned improvements, leads to the decision to hold a special election on this one issue, Tuesday, September 20.

Not to be forgotten, in this connection, is that October 1 marks the deadline for securing the $450,000 federal grant that has been allocated for this project—dependent on approval of the bond issue.

It appears not to have been understood by all voters that this is a direct grant from the federal government, that is not to be repaid and does not carry an interest charge.

It has been found, in a number of instances, that objectors to the bond issue have lacked full understanding of present dangerous and unsanitary conditions in a number of the public school buildings and have not realized the saving to taxpayers that can be effected by taking advantage of the federal grant of $450,000 now available.

There will be time, between now and the date of the special election, for every voter to LEARN THE FACTS about Mansfield's junior high and old grade school buildings.

A Well-Merited Honor.

MANSFIELD people of every religious faith join with members of St. Peter's parish in sincere appreciation of the honor that has been conferred on Rev R. C. Goebel, who has served faithfully and well as pastor of the Mansfield parish of the Catholic church for the past fifteen years.

Elevation of a priest to the title and honor of Monsignor comes only as a deserved reward for meritorious service, and those who know of the fine character, superior ability and earnest effort that Father Goebel has at all times evidenced in his work here will feel assured that he fully merits this recognition.

Monsignor Goebel, as he will hereafter be known, has not only been a tireless and effective worker in his own parish, and in providing excellent modern facilities in St. Peter's school, but has also found time to share in many worthy community activities, intended for the betterment of Mansfield and for advancement of the welfare of its people.

Farmers and Buying Power.

SECRETARY WALLACE tells farmers that if the AAA were overthrown, or ignored, they would face a possible collapse of farm prices and destruction of the capitalist system.

"Go out and defend your farm program against those who are trying to divide the farmers," he tells a group of AAA state committeemen. "Make it work!"

There is obviously room for argument here. Many will question whether the preservation of our American system of private capitalism really hangs on this particular device for regulating farm production and distribution. But of the vital importance of farming in the national economic scheme, there can be no question.

The recovery wave, after the big depression, started when the farmers were able to buy again, and perhaps the clearest fact in our national economy is the importance of maintaining agricultural buying power. When it is allowed to lapse, industry goes to pieces and cities also lose their buying power.

Careless Motorist.

ONE DAY this week a transient motorist passing through Mansfield left his car in charge of a hitch-hiker while making a business call.

The ignition key was left in the lock, as an invitation to the hitch-hiker to drive away, if he cared to.

But all he did, it appears, was to drive around the corner, out of a "No Parking" zone, and leave the car and its contents intact.

This was more than the motorist could have really expected. After such an inexcusable exhibition of carelessness he should have expected his car to be stolen.

It is regrettable that the police department was required to waste time on such an occurrence.

Courtesy to Chickens.

PEOPLE are too rude about invading the privacy of henhouses, says H. W. Titus, poultry expert at a national research station in Beltsville, Md. Before intruding, it is better to rap on the door. "Then the chickens know what to expect, come to attention and face the door. There is no fluttering—no alarm."

Most people haven't realized how sensitive chickens are to the finer nuances of behavior. But we know that courtesy usually pays among people, and we can probably get used to being courteous to chickens.

With so many circus people out of jobs it's getting so a contortionist scarcely knows which way to turn.

It appears that the Cleveland Indians had a winning streak one day this week.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Three hundred years cover almost the entire history of this country and that same span of time has seen the marshy little village of Jamestown, Va., rise, flourish, burn, decline and finally surrender to grass and shrubs, except for a few jutting piles of brick.

Recently I visited the place because the state of Virginia and the department of interior are slowly digging it out again.

It is a strange sight. To outward appearances it is almost as barren as when in 1607 Captain John Smith settled his little colony on the nubbin of land that sticks out into the James river a few miles from where it pours into the Chesapeake.

But painstaking archeologists are carefully sweeping off the surface to get down to the history buried under black marsh earth. Sweeping is the true word, for whiskbrooms and spoons are the tools of the modern day archeologists, instead of spades, although the latter are used to skim off the top earth.

Only a few miles away several million dollars of Rockefeller money have been spent to restore historic Williamsburg, which became the seat of government of Virginia when Jamestown burned just before the years turned to 1700. Williamsburg is a going city, although it smells more of history than of commerce.

Of Jamestown there is nothing but history, buried one to five feet down.

Houses on Houses.

MUCH of the site is marked off in 10 foot squares by a series of pegs which act as markers in plotting the location of anything found, such as a pottery fragment, a coin, or an old wine bottle.

Already the foundations of several houses have been partially uncovered. One foundation had been the basis of three successive houses, each adding a bit of rock on top of the last. When the digging began, grass and brush had grown over even the last one.

A ditch which the earliest settlers dug along one side of the village had been completely filled in by drifting earth but its location was discovered by cross-trenches which showed clearly the contrast between the black earth which filled it in, and the red soil in which it originally was dug.

A few graves survive, some marked, others not. The brick tower of the old church rears up among the brush and trees, some of which have sprouted and grown old since the site was abandoned.

* * *

Old Friends, Old Wine.

ONLY this past week the explorers have uncovered about 75 feet of a brick pathway. From what it started and where it leads remains concealed under the mud, 10 inches deep. A hundred years of plowing over the sites upended some of the bricks long after the pathway had been forgotten.

In all the digging so far, nothing has been found to compare with the novelty discovered at Williamsburg. In an old well which had been filled in with the passage of years, a bottle of wine was found where it had been hung by some Williamsburger possibly long before the Revolution. The bottle was shaped like an inverted mushroom, a type made by 17th century Colonists.

The wine, assayed by a chemist, proved drinkable. I couldn't find whether anybody had tasted it.

Timely Editorial

Look For Better Times.

The better feeling of industrialists about the business situation is rather impressive. To date, it is rather largely a matter of feeling. Of 10 corporation heads of other leaders whose views are reported by the Associated Press, only four speak of actual gains already recorded, while the entire number emphasizes the improvement that is expected.

In other words, they are all "looking for" better business, although but a minority of them actually have experienced it. The attitude itself is important. Less than two months ago it did not exist, certainly not in the persistent and virtually unanimous form it now takes.

The change in outlook of course has been brought about in good part by the upward movement in the stock market over a period of nearly two months, with but periodic interruptions. So far there has been no satisfactory explanation of the market. But there has been an abundant readiness to catch the spirit of it, so that even a spokesman for the railroads can say that "psychology has improved enormously.—Kansas City Times.

IN THE WRONG SCHOOL!

People Becoming Tax Conscious

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Accounts drifting into Washington from out in the sticks are to the effect that American voters are becoming exceedingly conscious of the tax burden—not only the very heavy taxpayers, but the small fry, too.

Besides the federal government, the states quite generally are squeezing out every cent they can get. County and city levies likewise are increasingly oppressive.

The average citizen, however, evidently does not distinguish sharply between national and local imposts. He recognizes simply that collective taxation is high, is impressed by published figures of Uncle Sam's growing deficits, foresees a still weightier load to carry in years to come, and tends to blame the Washington administration for the whole thing.

* * *

IN BRITAIN

Nor is the average citizen's feeling in the matter altogether wrong, though he may not fully comprehend why not.

Statisticians prove that John Bull's taxes, as an illustration, are higher than Uncle Sam's. This is true enough. But John Bull's tax is nearly the only tax that the Briton has to pay. The local levies chalked up against him are picayunish. Having paid J. Bull, he hasn't much else to pay. The American victim, having settled with Uncle Samuel, still has a multiplicity of local bills to foot.

The Briton, adding all his tax bills up together, gets off considerably more lightly than the American, after he has added up all his.

* * *

BRITON KNOWS HIS

The Briton knows about how his taxation rate averages up, countrywide.

The American has no such certainty.

He can ascertain what his federal average is. But suppose he lives in a state where his local average is high. Obviously he pays at a far higher rate than an American resident of a state where local levies are relatively low. An average can be struck between the two, indeed, but it is an average at the expense of the state where local taxation is comparatively high.

It is an average which does not mean much, all around.

* * *

NUISANCE TAXES

For example, I spend most of my business hours in the District of Columbia. But I live in Alexandria, on the Virginia side of the Potomac, a suburb.

I smoke cigarets. In Washington I pay a federal tax on them of about 6 cents per pack—a corking high impost. I may say. But in Virginia I must pay the federal impost, plus an additional impost of a fraction of a copper per pack. Naturally I buy my cigarets in Washington and carry a pocketful of them over into Virginia. They cannot very well stop and search me at the District line.

It would be unconstitutional interference with interstate commerce, for one thing.

* * *

INDIRECT

But the point is:

Federal taxation, except the income tax, mainly is indirect. The taxee does not realize that he is paying it. If he has to pay 16 cents for a 15-cent pack of cigarets it makes him sore. He does not realize that the initial 15-cent pack represents a 6-cent governmental rake-off, because that isn't conspicuous. It's disguised under a government stamp. The extra cent is what irks him.

I believe in above-board taxation. The more offensive it is the better—for the more offensive it is the likelier it is to be questioned and put to the test.

It seems to be getting that way, which is all to the good.

Listen, World!

A Trickle of Water.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

A TRICKLE of water seeps from the south spring, loiters along the edge of the pine woods, then breaks — tinkling, murmuring — into the open field.

It is only a tiny stream, no wider than my hands; a thin glint of light, nearly hidden in the tangled grass. But if you will lie beside it for a quiet hour you will discover many things.

With the years, the thread of water has cut a narrow bed for itself. In some places it runs through the red loam. There the water is a ruddy gold, dappled with sunny flecks, that flow and part and flow again, like drops of mercury. In other places the bed is cut through quartz and granite sand, and the water is a shining gray, shot with gleams of mica.

And, again, the water spreads into a little pool, dark as old amber. The pool is no larger than a cup, yet it mirrors the majesty of pines and holds within its shallow, shadowed depth the mystery of peace.

Many things root in the tangle that borders the stream. Damp mosses, with their pads of emerald plush. Delicate grasses, with steams fragile as spun glass, and quivering seed pods like small, crystal beads. And other grasses, of a harsher green, with lusty, thrusting stems jointed like bamboo. And weeds with red gnarled roots. And frail ferns with hair-thin stems as black as ebony.

Yet, lying close, with your face at their level, you see that nothing is just green, or red, or black. Everything is shot with light, drenched with color. Along green grass blades there run veins of turquoise blue. The crystal seeds are garnet in the sun. The gnarled, red roots are splashed with violet and each black stem is spattered with pale gold.

And, here, too, is a wilderness of flowers. Scarlet "snapdragons" spurting tongues of flame. Blue "star flowers," smallest of the iris clan. A tiny, nameless thing, inch high, with seed-pearl bells. A swaying bloom of rosy lavender, with silky petals so transparent that the light streams through them, as through bright stained glass. And tufts of dandelion, gone to seed, their glistening globes a network of gauze stars.

* * *

SMALL creatures live here also, busy flies or ants. A striped, green snake. An old, fat toad who has a home beneath a twisted root. A little wood mouse, small as his own squeak. Red lady bugs, with polka-dotted wings. Lean "water-scooters" skating on their silvery bulbs of air. Bright-eyed bird visitors come down to bathe.

Above the tangled web of grass and flowers there hangs a twinkling mist of small, blue butterflies. And with them rises golden pollen powder—and swirls of bubbles from the fluttering wings.

Unseen, but sharply urgent, comes the smell of mountain earth—that soil which is the dust of blossoms, fragrant gums and aromatic leaves, crumbled to ash beneath long, summer fire.

Light, fragrance, color and sweet, tinkling sound. All these one finds, framing an urgent life—a tiny, gay, fierce world, as real as that which men inhabit—love, hunger, hate, soft dreams and sudden forays; birth, death and resurrection, maybe. But always growth. All these are here, strung on that sparkling thread.

A tiny stream, no wider than my hand—but if you lie beside it for a quiet hour you will discover many things.

Some lives are like that stream—obscure; half lost beneath the larger plans; lacking it seems, in beauty or significance. Yet, if you'll live beside them, for a quiet space, you may discover secret loveliness and strange campaigns.

What's Happened?

A Week-End Summary of Current Events.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT—after what Sen. Walter F. George called a "march through Georgia"—broadcast a social security sermon this week from Washington, then left for the dedication of a bridge between Canada and New York state.

In Georgia, the chief had endorsed tall, athletic Lawrence Camp, 39, favorite of CIO Labor's Non-Partisan league, who is running for the senate in the primary (Sept. 14) against (1) gray-haired, polished Sen. George, 60, who has AFL President Green's support, (2) square-jawed, red suspendered ex-Gov. Eugene Talmadge, 55, and (3) eloquent, Townsend-advocate W. G. McRae, 38.

And George retorted this week with a ringing declaration that: "The white Democrats of Georgia are capable of choosing their own representatives. The federal power cannot be rightly used to elect and defeat any candidate in a sovereign state for any office solely in the keeping of the people of that state. The Democratic party is not, and cannot become, a one-man party."

Lewis Vs. Tydings.

The president's next move was to include in his social security chat a tribute to Maryland's stocky Rep. David J. Lewis, New York's Sen. Robert F. Wagner, Mississippi's Sen. Pat Harrison and North Carolina's Rep. Robert Doughton.

Lewis, 69, is running against Sen. Millard Tydings, 48, in the Maryland Democratic senatorial primary (Sept. 13). The president said Lewis "is known as one of the American pioneers in the cause of social security."

That cause, Mr. Roosevelt continued, still would be "in the conversational stage" if, in the past, the people had chosen a "do nothing" congress.

"What we are doing is good," he declared. "But it is not good enough." The law, he thinks, should be both improved and extended without resort to "fantastic financial schemes." And he mentioned inclusion of additional groups of citizens, liberalization of old-age insurance, and provisions for medical services as possibilities.

O'Connor Vs. Fay.

The next day the president read reporters a "New York Post" editorial. Charging that "hidden opposition" within the Democratic party "hides the ax behind its back and prepares to give the president lip-service," the editorial asserted that "in those circumstances there is nothing for the president to do—as the responsible head of the New Deal—but to publicly repudiate those who have betrayed the New Deal in the past and will again."

This was followed by criticism of both Sen. Tydings and Rep. John J. O'Connor, and the president said this editorial expressed his views.

O'Connor, a Brown and Harvard graduate who represents New York City's east side, heads the powerful house rules committee. Now he thinks, all good men should rise above their party. So he is running in both the Democratic and Republican congressional primaries in his district (Sept. 20). And a 100 per cent New Dealer, James H. Fay, deputy collector of internal revenue, is vying with him for the Democratic nomination.

In Canada on Thursday, the president made a vigorous plea for the long-debated St. Lawrence waterway treaty—asserting that a "group of American interests" may gain a monopoly in development of the river if Canada and the U. S. do not take joint governmental action.

* * *

The Week's Voting.

In Wyoming, only state to hold a primary this week, Democratic Gov. Leslie A. Miller was renominated and Nels H. Smith, a livestock man, led a five-man race for the Republican nomination. Wyoming has only one congressman, Paul R. Greever. He had no opposition in the Democratic primary.

* * *

Third-Term Talk.

Republican Chairman Hamilton and two Montana Democrats, Sen. James Murray and Rep. Jerry O'Connell, agreed this week that President Roosevelt might seek re-election, but Tennessee's Sen. Kenneth McKellar and Indiana's Sen. Sherman Minton doubted it.

At Home

'The People vs. Hines.'

New Yorkers consider the trial of James J. Hines, 61, Tammany Hall's most influential district leader, their city's most significant courtroom drama since Tammany Boss Tweed was convicted of a $50,000,000 public-funds fraud in 1873.

A "blue ribbon" jury was sworn in this week to hear it. Hines was charged with participating in the control and profits of a $100,000,000 gambling racket. Prosecuting him was crusading District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, white-hope of office-hungry Republicans.

"This is a political battle," said Hines. "I can't lose."

"Hines got $500 a week in cash, always in cash," declared Dewey, in an opening statement to the jury. "Without a doubt, his duty was to protect the racket." Dewey also charged that the late Dutch Schultz's gang, with which he was trying to link Hines, had helped elect William C. Dodge, Dewey's predecessor as district attorney. And George Weinberg, former "business" associate of Schultz, took the stand and pointed out Hines as the man who protected the racket. But Hines' lawyer protested that the case was "saturated with the rankest perjury."

* * *

Youngsters Get Together.

From 56 countries, 1,000 delegates and observers for 40,000,000 young people met this week at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to ponder peace. The Y.M. and Y.W.C.A. and many other young people's organizations were represented, but Poughkeepsie city dads frowned on the congress's "internationalism."

New York's Mayor LaGuardia declared, however, that the meeting could not "accomplish any less than a disarmament conference" and described it as "the answer" to Germany's military maneuvers.

* * *

Wheat Problem.

AAA proposed this week to offer wheat growers a subsidy of from 26 to 30 cents a bushel for reducing their acreage 31 per cent next year. This year's benefit payment rate was 12 cents a bushel.

This year's wheat crop, bigger than last year's represents a grave question, according to Secretary Wallace, and he indicated Wednesday that he was working on a plan to subsidize the export of about 100,000,000 bushels.

* * *

Chicago Rail Row.

Twenty thousand Chicago commuters were deprived of their customary transporation Tuesday by a revolt of AFL workers on the Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee railroad against a 15 per cent pay cut. The union had voted 442 to 6 to stop work, after company officials had declared nothing could be accomplished by arbitration. The line has been in federal receivership since 1932. The U. S. labor department assigned a conciliator to the case.

Rep. Caroline O'Day, of New York: "War to end war is a desperate and tragic failure."

President Roosevelt, in Canada: "The Dominion of Canada is part of the sisterhood of the British Empire. I give to you assurance that the United State will not stand idly by if domination of Canadian soil is threatened by any other empire."

Sen. Pat Harrison, finance committee chairman: "If we feel impelled to get more money . . . congress, of course, will consider broadening the base of the income tax and increasing the rates."

Hero's Widow's Home.

A destroyer soon will be named for Lieut. Mons. Monssen, U. S. naval hero. The same day his widow, Mrs. Sadie Leslie Monssen learned about it, she got an FHA eviction notice for not keeping up payments on a $7,000 mortgage on her Brooklyn home.

"You are like a woman seeing a mink coat in a window and wanting it even though you cannot pay for it," a judge told her. "Get the idea out of your head that you are a golden child and realize you are just one of the 130,000,00 souls in America." Her home then was sold, but she got a 30-day respite.

A taxpayers association has appealed to the president in her behalf, and a veterans' association has started a collection for her.

Frantic from pain, he toppled into Georgian Bay and drowned. Detroit authorities estimated the young widow would get at least $1,250,000 from his estate.

Kallmerten Quits, Committee Meets Today; Republicans Confer Tonight.

In announcing his withdrawal Kallmerten said:

"As chairman of the Richland County Democratic executive committee for the past two years, I gave my time and effort to be of service to the Democratic party. Desiring to continue to be of service to the party as committeeman of the 17th district, I have decided that I would not be a candidate for re-election as chairman.

"I supported Governor Davey in the primaries. I felt this to be my duty since I was given much consideration by the governor.

"I was elected a member of the Democratic state central committee from the Seventeenth congressional district and I expect to give my time and effort to elect Charles Sawyer and the entire Democratic ticket."

Asked what he meant by his statement: ". . . since I was given much consideration by the governor," Kallmerten added that "Gov. Davey has favored me and Richland county frequently by giving countians preference for appointive jobs and helping the county and city to obtain benefits that they otherwise might not have had."

A contest developed two days ago for the Republican central committee chairmanship, but party leaders saw Charles Swanger, Shelby barber, as the leading candidate for the post and predicted there would be no "fireworks" when the committee meets tonight.

John Hess, Mansfield First ward committeeman, was reported to be campaigning for the post, but G. O. P. leaders indicated he would withdraw rather than cause dissension in party ranks.

Ralph M. Hardy, present chairman of the committee is a candidate for the executive committee chairmanship to succeed Glenn L. Bierly, who will not run again.

"The mask is composed of spongy rubber which fits over the face with a bladder attachment that inflates and deflates as you breathe," he explained. "It mixes air and oxygen before the pilot breathes it.

"This is a radical departure from masks which simply supply oxygen with what air a pilot can pick up on the side. By this new mixture you don't get the concentrated flow of oxygen that raises hell with your throat."

Hughes said that the mask would be valuable to airline pilots who lose their maximum of efficiency as soon as they leave sea level because they lose oxygen and become sleepy.

On the flight the plane was held at an average altitude of 17,000 feet, Hughes said, although it was originally planned to fly at 25,000 feet.

A Farmer's Diary

Fall Plowing.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE shocks of oats have vanished from the fields, and the rich brown straw and stubble are seen no more this year. Heavy rains have soaked the thirsty soil, and I am busy plowing. The ground turns from the share, a dark and loamy slice. The plow slides through the fragrant earth with no greater effort than in the spring. But since there is no sod. I miss that ripping, tearing sound that matted turf will make.

On the long rounds, great flocks of blackbirds fly above the field, and swoop down upon the fresh-plowed land. Like crows they walk about and scratch the loose dirt, and quickly grab a fat white grub, or wriggling angleworm.

As I follow close upon the plow, I feel the hope of ten months in the future, when this field, in fallow now, will be alive, clear to the narrow fencerow, with waving heads of golden grain . . . when clover sown in early spring, will reach its thin soft stems and leaves above the even swath the binder makes.

This field I am plowing now is not one I work in today and forget tomorrow. It will be with me constantly. I am placing hard-earned money into that field . . . fertilizer, seed, and labor . . . and it bears my hopes into the future, gives me visions of a plentiful harvest and a prosperous year.

When I plow for wheat, fit the ground, and complete the seeding, it means just a little more to me than any short summer crop. For wheat has greater hazards—of winter storms, of frozen ground, of thawing season, of drowning out in spring—than any other cereal raised.

DONALD SNYDER WEDS VIRGINIA KURRICH

Couple United This Morning First to Be Married by Rt. Rev. R. C. Goebel Following Confering of Title.

THE FIRST COUPLE to be united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rt. Rev. R. C. Goebel since he was made a domestic prelate with the title Monsignor this week, was Miss Virginia Kurrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kurrich, and Donald L. Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ora O. Snyder, Lexington.

The mass was read at 9:30 a. m. today at St. Peter's Catholic church. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of antique ivory slipper satin cut on princess lines with a high cowl neck, the sleeves and back bodice were made of Margot lace.

The sleeves, which were cut in the full leg-o-mutton style, were trimmed with a tiny row of buttons from the puff to the point falling over the hands. The only other trimming on the gown were the tiny satin covered buttons which closed the back of the dress from neck to hipline. The full cut skirt extended in a long, rounded train.

Illusion Veil.

A three tier matching illusion veil with a full train extending beyond the train of the dress was worn by the bride.

It was caught by a headpiece of pearlized orange blossoms from which extended two shorter virgin veils falling to the waist.

A small ivory mother-of-pearl prayer book covered with a shower of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley, the gift of the bridegroom, was carried by Miss Kurrich.

Her only attendant was Miss Ann Menrath who wore an autumn gold satin high backed dress which had a shirred bodice effect created by a draw string, and puffed sleeves fastened similarly. With it she wore an autumn rust doll hat of velvet and illusion and matching accessories. She carried a muff of rust tulle with gold and rust pansies attached to it.

Ushers were Richard Snyder and David Snyder, both of Lexington, and Guy Heffelfinger, Loudonville, served as best man. Raymond E. Baum, organist, played nuptial music preceding the ceremony.

Organ Selections.

His selections included "Intermezzo In E" by Cassiolani, "A Wedding Prelude," "Wedding March In A," "Melody In G" and "Recessional" as a postlude by Guilmant. The regular mass was sung during the ceremony.

Mrs. Kurrich wore a beige dress with brown accessories and a corsage of gardenias for the wedding, while Mrs. Snyder appeared in navy blue lace with a gardenia corsage.

After the ceremony, which was performed before an altar decorated with palms and ferns and two tall beauty vases and altar vases of gladioli in autumn shades, a wedding breakfast was served at noon at the Susie Janis home.

The table decorations were all in white except the place cards for the 20 guests which were made of tiny silver slippers filled with white flowers. The centerpiece was a colonial bouquet of white flowers.

Following the breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Snyder left for a five-day trip through the southern states. Mrs. Snyder wore a rose suit with beige accessories. Upon their return Aug. 25 they will be at home at 267½ Marion avenue.

The bride is a graduate of St. Peter's high school and St. Francis school at Joliet, Ill. She is a member of Alpha Pi Sigma. Mr. Snyder attended Lexington high school and is affiliated with the Cities Service Oil company.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Aug. 21.

Sunday's horoscope is an excellent one for affairs of church, state and philanthropy, as well as for dealing with those in position and power. It is auspicious for seeking promotion and favors.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which they are encouraged to seek honors, preferment and promotion from superiors or those in influential positions. But there might be a peculiar financial complication in connection with a stranger. Generally, happiness should prevail.

* * *

For Monday, Aug. 22.

Conflicting conditions must be read from this day's lunar transits. While there are auguries of fair activities, with some progress and headway, yet there is portent of a tenacious obstacle or difficult situation, possibly a bereavement, illness or grief to cope with. Money may cause anxiety.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of contradictory auguries.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE WAY TO JUDGE

If you watch two grades of suit declarers and try to note what distinguishes the better ones from the weaker ones, there is a feature which will surely become clear to you. The lesser ones will show too great a desire to take tricks by ruffing. The starwarts will seem by comparison to prefer setting up long cards of some side suit, in either closed hand or dummy. In fact, that is about the first problem a star surveys, after sizing up the safety of his trump suit—the question of whether or not there is a side suit which may be established in some way.

Against South's 4-Heart contract West started the defense by cashing the spades K and A and continuing with the suit in response to East signal. South ruffed and laid down the club A. He next ruffed a club, then a spade, on which East discarded a diamond. The next club ruff in dummy made it necessary for him to lay down the diamond K. East held off till the second round to kill the suit and then led the club K. Declarer trumped this in dummy and then had to ruff his diamond, losing one trump at the end.

He should have observed at the start that with this type of hand ruffing was not in order. The moment he gained control his correct procedure was to go after the diamond suit and that method of play would have earned him his contract.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

When Mother Graham issues a summons to any one of her immediate household, the person whom she is addressing obeys it instantly. A royal command could be no more effective.

Dicky is no exception to the rule, and I was not surprised to see him move quickly to his mother's door when she called him in a tone that spelled displeasure and irritation.

"What is it, Mother?" he asked placatingly. "Anything the matter?"

"Nothing that you would call anything," she retorted tartly. "But I should like to know why you requested me to pull down the shades in the boys' rooms, and then attended to it yourself? I know that I am slow, but in this instance I was waiting only until Faith should go back to sleep again after her waking up frightened. I do not see why, because of my attention to that most necessary duty, you should think that I was derelict in the matter of the window shades. I should have been down there in another minute, and I must say I think you were positively unkind to make it appear that I was neglecting a duty assigned me in this trying time."

She was superb, I told myself, struggling with my risibles. I never had seen her in better martyred form, and I was frankly curious to see how her son would manage the situation.

Dicky Facetious.

"My most humble apologies to your Majesty," he said. "I had no idea of reflecting upon your conduct, or of registering impatience. I knew that you could not leave the nursery until Faith was asleep, and, therefore, as the boys' rooms were on my way downstairs, I stepped in and performed the very short and simple task I had asked of you. Believe me, your Royal Highness, regard for you was the only thing actuating my conduct. Must I be condemned for that? Please remember my faithful wife and my innocent chil-der-r-n, and stay your hand. Be merciful, I play!"

"Get along with you," she said, with a reluctant smile twitching the corners of her lips. "If you haven't anything to do downstairs, you would better find something to keep you busy. And—Margaret is waiting."

"Okay, your Majesty." He spoke the incongruous words through impishly smiling lips, then bent low, kissing her hand with an exaggerated gesture, before turning away and coming back to me.

"All set to play hostess to this belated supper party?" he asked me, smiling. But I saw that there were the graven lines around his mouth which spell strain, and knew that despite the excitement of the occasion, which had given him a respite from his own troubles, and even some mirthful moments, he was now remembering the menace which constantly hung over him.

Go to Dining Room.

But it was no part of mine to recognize that mood until he should decide to tell me about it. So I let no hint of my knowledge appear in my face or voice as I answered him in his own vernacular:

"All set and raring to go."

"Then we're already there," he retorted, and, clipping me under the elbow, rushed me down the stairs with such haste that his boast was almost good when we reached the dining room.

Lillian and Harry were already in the dining room, and we had barely exchanged greetings when Olina came into the room, her face a tell-tale mirror of her mother's condition. She was even smiling, and I knew that smiles had been exceedingly rare with both the princess and her mother since their tragic banishment from their home and their native land.

"Your mother is better. I can see that by your face," Lillian said.

"Oh! yes, much better," the girl's voice was a lilt of gladness. She's eating her supper now, and Madam Graham has come over to sit with her."

Lillian and I exchanged amused but a bit worried glances. In our minds was the same query:

What would be my mother-in-law's reaction when she heard Katherine call the queen Olga?

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

The selection of a funeral director should be governed by many important considerations. Professional ability and experience should be unquestioned. The most modern facilities and equipage should be at your command. And above all, the reputation for sympathetic helpfulness and price fairness, should be among the deciding factors. The Wappner organization invites your investigation, in each of these vital requirements.

HONOR BRIDE-TO-BE WITH AFFAIR HERE

Miss Heloise Moore, Ashland, Guest at "Round the World" Shower Given by Miss Hildegard Fensch Recently.

MISS HELOISE MOORE, daughter of Mrs. Charles L. Moore of Ashland, was feted Thursday evening at a party given here at the home of Miss Hildegard Fensch, in honor of her approaching marriage to Edwin Fensch, son of Mrs. Rosalie A. Fensch, 176 Newman street.

The gifts were all placed in a large boat mounted on wheels, and presented by John Paul, four-year-old cousin of the hostess. The little boy was dressed to represent a ship's captain.

The hostess presented the honoree with a corsage at the beginning of the party. At the close of the evening a two-course luncheon was served. Small merchant ships were presented as favors to the guests.

Contest winners were Miss Katharine Haag, Mrs. Ralph H. Damlos and Mrs. Arthur McMullen.

Out-of-town guests attending the party were Mrs. Kenneth Paul, Galion; Mrs. C. L. Moore, Ashland, and Mrs. David Shriver and Miss Maxine Elliot Shriver, of Shelby.

A deep rich shade of plum is being favored both for afternoon dresses and for sports frocks.

See These New Fall Colors

MARINE BLUE—A "carry-over" from last year, this color promises to be even more popular this season. It blends well with most outfits.

COFFEE BROWN—Another "carry-over" of last season. Coffee Brown is one of the lovelier of the darker shades. For casual and sport wear.

INDIA BROWN—Brown is very important this season and India Brown is a leader in the field. Natural tones, blues, greens and wines blend with this color.

BURNT EARTH—A glamorous new color this season, it promises to be a popular favorite with fashion-minded young moderns. Contrasts with navy or slate.

CHATEAU WINE—This is the most adaptable color for accent. It is dark enough and has enough warmth to match or blend with Fall outfits.

PORTO PLUM—Of all colors, this is the most interesting of the new Fall season. All kinds of unusual combinations can be worked with it.

GOLDEN HAVANA—This glamorous color will blend well with toast tan and contrast beautifully with black or blue. It's a new 1938 color.

TERRY MAY GET BID TO STAR IN BASEBALL FILM; OTT IS HONORED.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Bill Terry may get a bid to go to Hollywood in the fall to star in a baseball picture authored by Francis Wallace of "Kid Galahad" fame. . . . Dr. Jock Sutherland, professor of gridironology at Pitt, will headline the faculty at the U of Kansas coaching school next week. . . . If Henry Armstrong took one backward step against Lou Ambers the other night, we were scooped.

Mel Ott of the Giants won the third base post on the breakfast food firm's all-star team and was presented an auto at the home plate yesterday. . . . It was the first gift Mel has received in 12 years of star baseballing. . . . Which recalls a remark old Goose Goslin once made. . . . Said Goose: "The only thing I ever received at the plate was a slow ball." . . . One of the best of the sportcasters is Paul Douglas, who does his talking for cigaret money.

If the Washburn college football team fails to satisfy the wolves this year, Mrs. Elmer Holm (and kiddies) will not worry about the groceries. . . . We'll say Joffre Cross, star U. of Oklahoma shortstop, joined the pros with a bang. . . . Giants Defeat Reds to Win Junior Title

Rally to Score 9 to 6 Win at Fairground.

The Giants annexed the City Recreation Junior baseball league championship yesterday by defeating the Reds, 9 to 6, at the Fairground.

The new champions broke loose with a thrilling rally in the late frames to chalkup the triumph. Trailing 3 to 0 going into the third inning, the Reds suddenly came to life to tally six times but the champs came back with four in the fourth and then added two more in the final stanza to win.

Nameth, Reds' hurler, let the winners down with five hits, but gave up eight walks, which figured prominently in the scoring. Robinson with a triple and single led the champions, while Gross collected two singles for the losers.

In the other affair, the Cubs defeated the Cards, 14 to 4. The box score of the game was not available.

Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Game

Al Boyer, Mohican Chevrolet's young righthander, entered baseball hall of fame yesterday as he pitched his club to a 6 to 0 victory over Ontario in the opening game of the Shaughnessey play-off in the City Recreation Senior league.

Boyer was in excellent form as he hurled his no-hit no-run performance. He issued seven walks and hit three batters, but turned on the pressure when the opponents had men on base. He struck out three.

The impressive victory enabled the Mohicans to advance to the finals at 6 p. m. Tuesday when they tackle the championship Ira D. Ling Canzols.

The Mohicans went to work on Dick Casad and in the first three stanzas had piled up a commanding 5 to 0, lead. The winners only collected four hits off Casad, but punched them to tally the runs.

Sunday to Determine Legion Title Hopes

MANSFIELD'S American Legion club will make its final Central Ohio league appearance Sunday unless it should happen that Jackson is defeated.

The Legionnaires, now holding down second place, go to Newark for their last scheduled game, while Jackson engages Lancaster.

If Jackson loses to Lancaster and the Legion club trims Newark, Mansfield will gain a share of first place. A playoff between the Mansfield and Jackson clubs would then be necessary to determine the second half title.

Newark won the first half championship, and the only game it lost was to the Legionnaires.

Whether the Legionnaires can turn the trick again Sunday remains to be seen, but Manager Dewey Durant has a suspicion that they can if Harold Geiger is right.

Geiger was on the mound for the Legion in the first Newark game, and turned in a creditable performance. Geiger, incidentally, is a former Newark twirler. Lefty Cochrane is expected to oppose Geiger.

So He Hit a Hole-in-One

LAGRANDE, Ore. — (AP) — Dean Irwin of Pentleton inspected the local golf course during a visit.

"I think I'll play just one hole," he said. He borrowed a mashie and ball, made a hole-in-one.

City Teams Play at North, Liberty Parks.

The curtain will be rung down on the schedule in the City Class A softball league Monday.

Regardless of the outcome of Monday's games, Johns and Prospect park will meet in the playoff to determine the league title. Johns won the first half championship, and Prospect is leading the second half race.

It is possible for Johns park to tie Prospect for the second half title Monday, but the championship series will start immediately without playing off the second half title if a tie should result. The News-Journal learned today.

Now Lead Tribe by 10 Games

Thornton Lee Continues His Mastery Over Faltering Vittmen in 7-2 Victory.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A dispirited and thoroughly cracked Cleveland Indian club today attempted to pull itself together and stave off the challenge of the Boston Red Sox for second place in the standing.

Despite threats by General Manager Cyril Slapnicka for the Tribe "to win the pennant or else—," Cleveland players and fans alike know the Indians can hope for nothing better than the runner-up position.

Tribe Must Improve.

To even finish second the Indians will be forced to play better ball than they did yesterday in dropping a 7 to 2 decision to the sixth place Chicago White Sox.

Cleveland clubs in the past have cracked, but not quite so miserably as the present edition. Just a month ago the Indians were a mere half game back of the pace-setting New York Yankees and now they trail by 10 full contests.

During the past month the Tribe has won 13 games and lost 15, while the Yankees have steamrolled to 23 victories in 29 starts.

Thornton Lee, the slender southpaw who once wore Cleveland regalia, continued his mastery over his old teammates yesterday to give the White Sox the triumph.

Lee permitted Cleveland only seven hits and the only runs off him came in the second inning when Hal Trosky hit his 16th home run of the year to score Earl Averill, who had singled.

The victory was Lee's eighth of the season and four of them have been scored at the expense of the Indians.

Pound Whitehill.

The veteran Earl Whitehill started in the box for Cleveland and was pounded out in the seventh. Denny Galehouse finished. The two hurlers gave up 13 safeties, six of which were good for extra bases.

In the second game of the series today Mel Harder and Monte Stratton were to be the opposing pitchers.

Merchants, Coals Tangle In Twin Bill Sunday.

Mohicans Play Butler Sunday

The Mohican Chevrolets will replace the Ira D. Ling Canzols as the opponent for Butler at Butler at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, Manager Bob Martin announced today.

Martin urges the following players to report at the Smokehouse at noon for the trip: G. Yarman, C. Yarman, Atton, Olin, Linta, Buzard, Straub, Bishop, Bair, Potye, Jurgens, Boyer and Hamilton. George Potye will hurl for the Mohicans.

Bourns Defaults, Foltz Eliminated

Lowell Bourns, defending champion and No. 1 seeded player, was forced to withdraw from the singles competition in The News-Journal's annual city championship tournament this week because of an ankle injury suffered earlier in the week. Bourns defaulted to Bob Ellison.

One of the biggest surprises of play to date was the unexpected elimination of John Foltz by R. E. Keefe, 18-year-old Mansfield high school senior, in the singles this week. Foltz, one of the seeded players, was beaten in straight sets.

YOUNG MANSFIELD STAR DEFEATS CUE VETERAN

Pete Mellio, 16-year-old Mansfield cue artist, gave a brilliant exhibition of his ability yesterday when he defeated Frank Morino, famous trick and fancy shot star, 50 to 17, in a special match at the Rex Billiard academy.

Mellio, Friendly House junior pocket billiard champion, only scored a high run of 13, but was able to outclass the visitor all the way. Morino also gave a demonstration of his shooting ability before the match.

TRADING LAGS AS LIST LACKS RISING VIGOR

Turnover Approximates Only 300,000 Shares in Slow Session.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Further faint rallying signs were present in today's stock market but rising vigor was lacking in most departments.

It was one of the slowest sessions in more than two months, with the 2-hour turnover approximately only 300,000 shares.

Continuance of moderately bright business prospects, brokers said, was the main buoying influence for the list. In some quarters, though, it was felt that an unusually strong recovery in the United States would be necessary to offset conditions abroad and turn the recessionary tide in several foreign countries.

Favored the greater part of the time were Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse, Western Union, American Telephone, Anaconda, American Smelting, Air Reduction, and N. Y. Central. Bendix edged into new high territory for the year.

THEATER

GRETA GARBO, whose romantic rendezvous with Leopold Stokowski in Italy this year kept her before her public even while she was absent from American films, returns to Hollywood Nov. 1, to resume her screen career. Stokowski returned several days ago. Two pictures are set for her and the stories are being written. Her first is an original love story, titled "Ninotchka," which, we are told, is Russian for "Love Is Not So Simple." It is a story of international intrigue. The second picture will place her in the historical and dramatic character of Madam Curie, co-discoverer of radium and its healing powers. The biography was written by Madam Curie's youngest daughter, Eve, from papers both public and private.

"Alexander's Raytime Band."

The song that Irving Berlin wrote almost 30 years ago when he was a singing waiter in a "joint" on the Bowery, and which has lived long enough in popular fancy to become something of an American folk song, gives title to tle to the story and picture that is the story and picture based on his early life. A lot of time and money has gone into the making of "Alexander's Rag Time Band" and it bids fair to be one of the bigger picture hits of the year. A purely fictional romantic theme carries along with the rise of a young band leader. The action opens in a San Francisco honkeytonk and as success comes to the three major characters, it swings to New York City. Alice Faye, Tyrone Power and Don Ameche are starred, with Ethel Merman, Jack Haley and Jean Hersholt heading a long supporting cast The picture opens at the Ohio at a midnight matinee tonight.

"Racket Busters."

Particularly timely right now in view of the publicity given the rackets investigation in New York City is the theme of 'The Racket Busters," which will be the Madison attraction the first of the week. Just as it is in today's news, the story is told of a special prosecuting attorney who goes after the rackets and wages a war on organized crime and vice. The racketeers answer by spreading terror over the city, burning and wrecking trucks and threatening the city's food supply. Humphrey Bogart, who is a No. 1 menace on the screen, heads the racket men, while Walter Abel is the David who rises up to wage war with the giant crime organization. George Brent and Allen Jenkins are independent truckmen who wage their own war on the racketeers Gloria Dickson is the romantic element.

"Mr. Chump."

Johnny "Scat" Davis, who made his picture debut a year ago in "Varsity Show," has been given the starring role in Warner Bros' comedy "Mr. Chump," one of the two features at the Majestic for Sunday and Monday. It's a comedy-drama of small town life, with Davis in the role of the small town boy who had a positive genius for singing hot tunes and swinging them on his trumpet—which was, as his followers will recall, just what Johnny was before he became a star with Waring's Pennsylvanians. Lola Lane and Penny Singleton have the leading feminine roles. The title comes from the fact that the home town folks think he's a chump because he can't hold down a respectable job and has his mind on nothing but his hot tunes. For a second feature the Majestic offers the re-issue of the daddy of all "horror" pictures, "Frankenstein," with Boris Karloff as the monster.

"Man-Proof."

A well-balanced bill, both with big box office casts, comes to the Ritz tomorrow for three days. There will be "Man-Proof," with Myrna Loy, Rosalind Russell, Franchot Tone and Walter Pidgeon. It's a modern society problem play with Myrna Loy losing her man to Miss Russell and then trying to get him back again. Tone is the young newspaper cartoonist who stands by until the triangle adjusts itself and he steps in to take the girl he's been waiting for. The second feature is "The Goldwyn Follies," with a yard or more of big names. To mention a few, there is Adolphe Menjou, Andrea Leeds, Phil Baker, Ella Logan, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Helen Jepson, Kenny Baker, the Ritz brothers, and Zorina, the dancer.

Seccaium Outing.

King Saxon and his 11-piece band, featuring a girl vocalist, will play for the dancers on Saturday and Sunday at Seccaium park. The band has been favorably received by the park dancers on several occasions One of the biggest events scheduled for the park is a picnic of the Galion Iron works today. Special entertainment has been arranged for the afternoon and evening.

FEAR FOUL PLAY

Sons Fear Mother Robbed, Poisoned, Ask Autopsy.

BOSTON—(INS)—Convinced that Mrs. Esther H. Wolfe, 68, was poisoned and robbed of $8,000 she carried in a pouch concealed in her clothing while visiting Portland, Me., last November, two sons seek permission to have the body exhumed for an autopsy.

The sons claimed that the money, all in old gold notes of high denomination, and jewelry their mother wore when she left for Maine, were missing when her body was brought here. The sons claimed she was in good health when she left, but died suddenly four days later.

Maine authorities, however, declared that the medical examiner who signed the death certificate was convinced Mrs. Wolfe died of natural causes in a Portland hotel.

A soft answer may not always turn away wrath, but it saves a lot of time.

PERRYSVILLE — Misses Mary and Charlotte Eddy have returned from White Top, Va., where they attended the national folk song festival held there each year.

MORO PRINCESS CONTENT TO FORGET DAYS AS U. S. CO-ED

(By United Press)

JOLO, Sulu, P. I.—Princess Tarhata Rtik Kiram, whose education at the University of Illinois was an experiment that failed, apparently is not sorry she declined to help speed the change in civilization for 300,000 Moros in the Sulu archipelago.

American lipstick, fur coats, football games and evening dresses are things of the past to the princess, who was to have been a "missionary" in the westernization of the Filipino Mohammedans.

She is living alone in apparent contentment in a simple dwelling on Jolo island like thousands of other Moros. She refuses to be questioned about her collegiate interlude in America in the early 1920s.

Her short skirts from Urbana have been replaced by Moro sarongs. She has abandoned chewing gum for betel nut, which has blackened her filed teeth.

The Americanization of the princess was the idea of Frank W. Carpenter, then governor of the Department of Mindanao and Sulu of the Philippine government. He sent Tarhata, still in her teens to Manila for preliminary education.

In the hope that education-by-example would hasten the transition of the Moros from their warlike ways, Governor Carpenter sent the princess to Illinois. She was accompanied by Miss Carmen Aguinaldo, daughter of the Philippine revolutionary leader, Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo.

Tarhata abandoned her American civilization in record time when she returned to Sulu and the experiment has never been tried again. Western ways are seeping into the Moro civilization, but gradually.

Princess Tarhata is living with her second husband, Datu Buyongan. She divorced her first husband, Datu Tahil, while he was in prison for sedition. She is the only wife of Datu Buyongan. Datu Tahil was a polygamist.

Operates, Removes Three - Inch Wire From Cow's Heart

POMEROY—(INS)—A cow, which was near death, is a healthy specimen today thanks to the success of an unusual operation.

The bovine, owned by County Commissioner Arthur Beegle, became ill suddenly and the illness was diagnosed as indigestion. But the cow continued to grow worse despite all the medicine administered by the veterinary

The veterinary, James Stansbury, of Athens, upon a second examination, declared the cow apparently was suffering from an obstruction in the heart and asked permission to operate.

With the aid of his son, Stansbury cut into the cow's flesh and removed a rib leaving a gap large enough to insert a hand and arm.

Probing the cow's heart with his fingers, Stansbury discovered a piece of bailing wire about three inches in length had penetrated the animal's heart. He said the cow probably would have died within a short time had the obstruction not been removed.

After a few days of convalescence, bossy went back to the pasture and is now doing fine with one juicy prime rib gone.

SUPER-PLANE MAKES FLIGHT IN TEN HOURS

Speed Pilot, Three Aids Look Like 'Strange Creatures' as They Land in N. Y.

BEST MARK BY HALF HOUR

New Oxygen Masks Win Praise From Sportsman Who Flew at 17,000 Feet.

(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Looking like strange creatures from another planet with oxygen mask contraptions strapped across their faces, Howard Hughes, record 'round-the-world flier, and a crew of three completed a speedy sub-stratosphere flight across the continent today and hung up a new record for transport planes

The millionaire pilot landed his eight-ton plane in which he streaked around the world at Floyd Bennett Field at 7:56 a. m. (EST) after taking off more or less secretly from Glendale, Cal., at 9:21 p. m. (EST) last night.

Better by Half Hour.

The non-stop hop took 10 hours, 35 minutes, clipping more than a half hour from the previous record for transport planes set by Tommy Tomlinson.

Hughes' own transcontinental record for speed planes of seven hours, 28 minutes, which he set in a stratosphere flight Jan. 19, 1937, still stands.

On today's flight Hughes was accompanied by Harry Connor, who navigated him around the world; Glenn Odekirk, superintendent of his aircraft plant, and Charles Perrine, radio operator.

Badly in need of a shave, his trousers baggy and wearing a battered brown fedora, Hughes said the flight was not intended to shatter any records but merely to try out the new oxygen masks and other special equipment.

Praises Oxygen Device.

Hughes had unqualified praise for the new oxygen device, invented by Dr. Richard Lovelace, Mayo clinic surgeon. He said the mask has proved very valuable and predicted its use in the future for air-

Plans New Expose of U. S. Communism

The Dies un-American activities committee at Washington today planned to expose the innermost secrets of the Communist party by calling as a witness a man who is said to have aided in the formation of the party in the United States. Before reaching this testimony, however, the committee planned to delve further into the charge that Communism virtually rules the WPA theater project. The investigation once more brought government officials into the picture as Rep. Noah M. Mason of Illinois, shown above at the left, took the floor and accused eight federal officials of membership in the American League for Peace and Democracy, a group which is charged with being a "front" for Communists in America. At their right is Frederick A. Silcox, chief of the Forest Service, who is one of the eight accused officials. Miss Mary Anderson, (insert), director of the federal Woman's Bureau, is another official named.

Dog Brings Back Pet Rabbit

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. — (AP) — Six-year-old Blair Hildebrand's pet rabbit dug out of its pen and ran away while the boy was ill.

Alarmed because their son was worried, Blair's parents searched three days for the bunny. As a last resort they put "Ted," a 15-year-old hound, on the cold trail.

Two hours later "Ted" returned, carrying the wriggling cottontail carefully in his mouth.

UNION SCHOOL JOINS CITY'S ELECTION CALL

Rural District Also Asking Bond Issue Vote Sept. 20 for $138,000 Building.

The Union Rural school district in Weller and Franklin townships today had asked the state tax commission for authority to hold a special election Sept. 20 on a $75,900 bond issue for a new $138,000 centralized school building.

If authorized by the commission, the election will be held on the same day on which the Mansfield board of education will re-submit its $550,000 school bond proposal. There would be no conflict in the voting, however, since the districts do not overlap.

Cause of Scrap.

The Union board's proposal for a new school building, calling for a PWA grant for $62,100, is the plan which resulted in the filing of malfeasance charges against Boyd Robinson, county superintendent, several weeks ago. Four of the five members of the board accused Robinson of filing an application for the PWA grant without authority from the Union board.

Hearing on the charges before the county board of education is set for Aug. 27.

The Union board today had filed its request for federal funds with the regional PWA office at Columbus. The proposed bond issue, like the Mansfield schools' program, must be voted by Oct. 1, or the federal government will not allocate funds for the building program in 1938.

The Union board has taken an option on a 16-acre tract on route 13, about one and a half miles

5,000 OTHERS CAPTURED ON SPANISH FRONT

Franco Opens Up Intensive Week-End Offensive in Barcelona Campaign.

TAKES PERSONAL CHARGE

(By Associated Press)

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier)—Spanish Insurgent dispatches said today that 5,000 government militiamen were captured and additional thousands killed as Generalissimo Francisco Franco opened what apparently was a carefully planned general offensive.

The insurgents attacked in force on the Ebro river front, south of Gandesa, where they reported the first line of government trenches in the Pandos mountains had been occupied and the second line was being attacked today.

Gives 'Wipe Out' Order.

Bulletins from Barcelona said, however, the government lines had held against the assault and had not lost an inch.

Observers believed Franco had given orders to his field commanders to wipe out the government's Ebro salient this week-end so a combined campaign against Barcelona and Valencia could start from consolidated positions.

First indications that a major offensive was near came yesterday when insurgent authorities canceled passes for exit to France as they had done frequently in the past before big drives.

Insurgent military leaders confirmed later that Franco himself would lead a new offensive.

Several insurgent officers who have been on leave were recalled to duty.

Large-scale troop movements also were underway. Italian shock divisions and Navarrese units, the cream of Franco's forces, were being shifted to the Catalan front, while Moorish reinforcements took places in central and eastern Spain.

Warplanes In Air.

Kallmerten Quits, Field For Dem 'Boss' Wide Open

Withdraws as Candidate for Executive Chairman as Committee Meets Today; G. O. P. Confers Tonight.

Announcement today by E. B. Kallmerten, Martin L. Davey gubernatorial campaigner, that he will not be a candidate for reelection as chairman of the Richland county Democratic executive committee left the selection of a party "boss" open for speculation.

Kallmerten's statement came a few hours before a scheduled organization meeting of the county Democratic central committee at 2 p. m. today at the courthouse.

Committeemen at today's session will select a central committee chairman to succeed M. W. Conley, who announced recently that he would not be a candidate for reelection to that post.

Expect Recommendation.

The executive chairmanship will be decided next week, party leaders said, although a recommendation for the job probably will be made at today's session.

The county Republican central committee will meet at 7:30 p. m. today at the courthouse to name its chairman and map campaign plans.

Democratic leaders saw G. A. Baer, former executive chairman, and Atty. John C. O'Donnell as logical successors to Kallmerten and Conley.

Baer, who headed the Sawyer-for-governor committee in the county in the primary campaign, has said he would "accept" the central committee leadership, "if chosen," and would back O'Donnell for executive chairman.

'Flirted', So He's Jailed

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—(AP)—Helma Keller, clerk in the state vehicle department, is all business.

When three youths "flirted" from an automobile near her office she checked up, found the license number belonged to another car.

Police arrested one of the trio. They found he was wanted in Los Angeles on three criminal charges.

EXAMINER HITS RURAL SCHOOLS

Coal Purchase at Lucas Criticized; Richland Findings Total $4,189.

Ninety-eight findings against individuals and business firms in 13 school districts were returned today by the state bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices in a report of examination of Richland county rural school accounts.

The 120-page report, submitted to County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott, lists total findings of $4,189, of which restitution has been made on accounts amounting to $548. The inspection covered the period from Oct. 16, 1935 to Nov. 30, 1937.

Re-districting of the county's rural schools in the past two years resulted in a number of findings against board of education clerks who neglected to renew their bonds when transferred from one board to another.

The largest finding was for $1,060, returned against the Equity Exchange at Lucas for alleged illegal sale of coal to the Monroe township school board. Purchase of supplies from the firm was illegal, the report said, because Emery Culler and W. S. Berry, members of the school board, also

1,000 Smuggled Into Switzerland In Manner Like Slaves Found Refuge In Northern U. S.; Movement Baffles Swiss Guards.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—More than 1,000 Austrian Jews, it was estimated today, have been smuggles into Switzerland in the past month by the modern version of the Scarlet Pimpernel and the underground railway.

Three hundred Swiss frontier guards are trying to cope with the problem and all available police in the northern Swiss cantons have been mobilized to help. France reinforced her guards at border points. Germans, too, promised increased vigilance.

The migration has been helped by a secret organization of Germans and Austrians who, with earlier fugitives, supplied money and shelter for fugitives on the way to the borders, much as colored slaves were aided secretly to reach the Canadian frontier by the underground railway in American Civil war days and as Frenchmen escaped during the French revolution.

Take Desperate Chances.

Jews, fearing for their future under the Nazi regime, frequently are willing to take desperate chances to get away. Emigration from Germany has become increasingly difficult as a result of international border regulations and German and foreign laws, despite the expressed Nazi determination that they must go.

The "underground" border traffic is particularly active near the Swiss town of Diepoldsau, whose limits extend five miles along the former Austrian border.

Jewish men and women, young and old and in every walk of life, have found this area suitable for fleeing Germany. Crossing the frontier is much more difficult in other places where the Rhine forms a natural boundary and is dangerous because of whirlpools and treacherous currents.

They have arrived in Switzerland practically penniless, and with nothing but the clothes on their backs.

Thieves 'Enjoy' Picnic Of Anti-Theft Group

NEWKIRK, Okla. — (AP) — Thieves fully enjoyed the two-day outing of the Newkirk anti-theft association. For instance, association members held a picnic—after which Warren Hardy reported his watch was stolen. A golf tournament—after which Bill Leighty reported the theft of a set of borrowed woods.

ASKED TO LEAVE

Britian Arrested in Germany on Espionage Charge.

BERLIN —(AP)— Capt. Thomas Kendrick, an official of the British passport office in Vienna, was arrested because proof had been established that he was conducting espionage activities, it was announced officially today.

The announcement said the British ambassabor, Sir Neville Henderson, had been requested to see that Captain Kendrick leaves Germany at the earliest possible moment.

In London, the British government understood Captain Kendrick, who was arrested by German secret police Wednesday near the Swiss frontier, already had been released. Officials there said he was expected to leave Vienna tomorrow or Monday.

NEW THEATER OPENS SEPT. 15

Canton Man Named Manager Of Film House Nearly Completed.

Mansfield's newest theater, the Park, which is being constructed on the corner of South Park and Diamond street, will be formally opened Thursday, Sept. 15, George A. Delis, district manager of the Interstate Theaters, incorporated, announced today.

Ralph H. Shaffer, manager of the Palace theater at Canton, has been assigned to take over the management of the new theater. The rest of the staff, about 15 persons, will be Mansfield people.

The 1,400-seat house will be the fifth motion picture house in Mansfield, and will operate with a policy of two changes a week and double-feature bills.

SETS NEW MARK

Wooderson Clips Four-Tenths of Second Off Half-Mile Record.

LONDON—(INS)—Stanley Wooderson, slender British bank clerk, today set a new world record for the half mile which he ran in 1:49.2, clipping four-tenths of a second off the mark made by the Californian, Elroy Robinson, last year. Wooderson made his mark today at the Motspur park athletic meeting.

FIGHTS DEATH

Conductor's Wife Shot, Suspect Surrenders.

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Shot down in a dramatic street scene, Mrs. Emita McCormick Krueger, wealth Chicago society matron and wife of Karl Krueger, internationally famous orchestra conductor, was near death today.

Charles E. McDonald, estranged husband of Mrs. Frances McDonald, a governess in the Krueger home, surrendered to police in connection with the shooting. He mistakenly believed, police said, that Mrs. Krueger had advised Mrs. McDonald to divorce him.

Fascist Party, Vatican Reach Agreement on Church Activities.

The agreement is expected to end the latest conflict between the Italian state and the Holy See over church activities.

BUSINESS CLIMBS

C. of C. Characterizes Improvement As 'Exceptional.'

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The U. S. chamber of commerce reported contra-seasonal improvement in business, which it characterized as "exceptional." Emphasizing that business activity normally eases downward at this time the chamber said the trend now is upward.

Further improvement during September, the chamber said, appears almost certain "unless the politicians manage to thwart them."

UPHOLD GUARDS

Probers Say They Acted in Line of Duty in Killing 4.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex —(U.P.)— A special committee of the Texas prison board decided today that Robert Parker and other Eastham prison farm employes acted in line of duty in killing four prisoners who tried to escape the farm.

"The preponderance of evidence shows that Parker and other guards and possemen were acting in line of duty in all the violent deaths," said S. D. Chestnutt of Kennedy, chairman of the special committee.

Parker, whom Sheriff Archie Maples of Houston county had charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of John Hendrix Frazier, 21, Dallas convict attempting to escape, was nobilled by the grand jury at Crockett.

Payments By Mail Flood Tax Office On Deadline Day

A huge stack of mail, representing hundreds of dollars in real estate tax payments, overflowed County Treasurer John E. Kolb's desk today and scores of taxpayers jammed his office to get under the payment deadline, set at 3:30 p. m. this afternoon.

Receipts had mounted to $431,707 this morning, and the treasurer forecast that total collections for the period just ending would reach, or exceed his goal of $570,000.

Collections yesterday amounted to $56,587 for the second best day since the collection period began early in July, and today's receipts were expected to approach that figure. Collections Thursday totaled $66,683.

Six outside collectors in the county have yet to report their collections, and that total, plus the mail receipts, is expected to make the half-year collection "satisfactory," according to Kolb.

City, Township Act To Borrow $129,000 To Meet Relief Costs

City Solicitor Marion D. Ward today was preparing legislation, to be presented at a special meeting of city council called by Mayor Claude . . Hunter for Tuesday night, authorizing borrowing of $125,000 to finance the city's relief burden for the balance of this year.

At the same time Madison township trustees acted to borrow $4,600 under a similar plan.

This was decided upon at a meeting of city officials with Madison township trustees and county commissioners yesterday afternoon.

The plan as outlined today by Assistant County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz calls for the issuance of notes against 70 per cent of the anticipated collection of delinquent taxes which in turn will be used to match funds borrowed from the state through the issuance of notes against 90 per cent of anticipated state taxes.

Under the borrowing plan, according to Ward, the city will be able to obtain approximately $60,000 to $70,000. This will pay off a $40,000 debt in food bills incurred in the past four months.

Meanwhile Madison township officials were "stumped" on their problem of raising enough funds to provide for their indigent cases. Through the borrowing process the township will gain a maximum of only $4,600 and they are already more than $5,000 in arrears in payment of their relief debt at present.

31 Per Cent Cut Requested In County's 1939 Wheat Acreage

Richland county farmers had been asked today to reduce their 1939 wheat acreage 31 per cent under this year's acreage to comply with the federal soils conservation program.

The county allotment was set at 25,166 acres as compared with approximately 36,500 acres produced this year. Guy Taylor, chairman of the county conservation committee, said.

County farmers will not be required to participate in the reduction plan, although individual allotment figures have been mailed to all of the 3,000 wheat growers in the county, Taylor asserted.

About 40 per cent of the county's farmers participated in the program this year, receiving an average of $60 each, he added.

Taylor pointed out that farmers who complied with the plan this year will receive nearly $1 a bushel for their wheat, while producers who disregarded the federal program are receiving 60 cents a bushel, about half of last year's price.

Payments are made on the basis of 12 cents per bushel. If the participating farmer cuts his acreage below the government's allotment, he receives an additional "bonus" payment of 12 cents per bushel.

PASTOR IN PEN

Grateful for Quick Removal From Menacing Crowd.

BISMARK, N. D. — (INS) — Sentenced to life imprisonment for a crime which he blamed on "the devil," the Rev. Heio Janssen, 54, today was grateful for his speedy removal to the state penitentiary here, which shielded him from a menacing crowd.

The Lutheran minister was hustled out of Stanton a few hours after he confessed poisoning Alma Kruckenburg, 16, and setting fire to his 10-room parsonage in a vain effort to conceal the crime.

Not That It Matters

—By JANE WILLIAMS

THE folding of the Toledo News-Bee the other day, with the announcement by Scripps-Howard that Toledo can't support two afternoon newspapers, was of tremendous interest to one who cut her newspaper eye teeth in a town of 4,000 where three afternoon papers flourished and prospered.

Three privately owned papers—the Union, the Republican and the Chief—made three families independently well-to-do. Not wealthy as wealth is reckoned today, but very comfortable fortunes.

But it can't be done today. Even in the old home town, the papers have merged into one. Competition, speed in gathering and disseminating news, and the unbelievable increase in the cost of production, have done the trick. All of these factors have throttled the old type of personal journalism and have forced newspapers into the "big business" class.

Readers' demand for spot coverage and for pictures of every major event necessitates a world-wide network of reporters and cameramen for which every big and little town paper must pay its share, and over a period of 25 years salaries of newspaper workers have increased from 50 to 300 per cent. When there's competition in a local field, departmental costs increase tremendously.

The time is coming—and not so far in the future—when only metropolitan cities will support more than one evening newspaper, or one morning and one evening paper. Among the cities that have already become "one-paper" towns are Denver, Louisville, Omaha, St. Paul, Youngstown, Toledo—to name only a few.

And as secondary papers "fold" in cities and towns, a far greater responsibility devolves upon the sole remaining publication—responsibility for accuracy, coverage and community service.

AT A MEETING of the Democratic National Committee in New York this week, Gov. Richard Leche of Louisiana said: "It's not a question of whether President Roosevelt wants to run for a third term, but of whether we can get him to run."

On the other hand, millions of us are concerned with the challenge of "try to KEEP him from running."

IN HIS NEW, No. 1 Heaven the other day Father Divine made a speech which held the undivided attention of his disciples for more than two hours. Among other things he said: "By supposition through superstition you think you are in a geographical Heaven, which is to say, according to Me, the sky is nowhere but is everywhere where there is nothing."

What a pity Father Devine and Gertrude Stein, the lady of unending repetitions, never got together. Imagine the wordage they could turn out between them! These two have worked out a strange formula for success, and that is to string words together in such a manner that there seems to be a deep meaning behind every meaningless word.

And you can either be awfully smart or awfully dumb to get by with it.

THE burning Question of an annual vacation has been settled once more in the Williams Tribe, with compromise on both sides. The Head of The Family said we'd go fishing again in Northern Canada, "on account of because" we both need a rest, but Your Mansfield Correspondent held out for a motor trip up through Quebec, around the Gaspe peninsula, down through New Brunswick and the New England states. There were arguments pro and con in which the question was brought up as to whether murder was ever justifiable in a family, but in the end we compromised, because compromise, a giving-in of both sides, is the very foundation of a happy marriage.

So in three weeks we're going to Quebec and Gaspe.

A YOUNG GIRL involved in a murder case in South Plains, Me., who was dubbed a "definite moronic type" by one of the attorneys, will make an appearance at a New York Night club, at $1,000 a week if the authorities don't stop the exhibition.

But after all it's not difficult to understand why the girl would be a definite attraction for people who will pay money to look at a two-headed calf, a horse with eight legs, a lady with a beard or a man who massages his tonsils with a sword.

As for the "moronic type," it's difficult to judge which is the more definite, the girl or the people who'll pay to see her.

August Old Age Pensions to Be Paid In Full

DIRECTOR WARNS SLASH LOOMS FOR SEPTEMBER

$415,000 Borrowed From General Revenue Fund to Make Delayed Payments.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — By borrowing $415,000 from the general revenue fund, August payments to old age pension recipients can be made without a cut it was announced today by State Finance Director Ray Allison but he warned that a three to four dollar reduction will probably have to be made in September.

For the past several months old age pensions have been averaging about $23 but because of slumping liquor receipt revenues it is imperative that a slash be made, Allison said.

In 1937 liquor revenues totaled almost $14,500,000 but that figure is expected to fall below $11,000,000 this year.

$1,215,000 In Hole.

As a result of the dip into general revenue funds the aid-for-the aged division will be $1,215,000 in a hole as $800,000 was borrowed previously. The law states, however, that the finance director can borrow from the general revenue fund for old-age funds as long as there is money in the fund.

Any effort to cut the average pension next month will be met with determined opposition by Henry J. Berrodin, chief of the aid for the aged division, who yesterday advocated a permanent, stable fund for pension payments and who deplored the fact that "inconsistent" liquor receipts made the pension situation so "unstable."

August payments are several days overdue, State Auditor Joseph Ferguson having issued a statement saying he could not make up and mail the checks because of the shortage.

Some observers foresaw a special session of the legislature to meet the crisis but Governor Davey could not be reached for comment on this possibility.

Up and Down THE STREET

The imagination of one Mansfield woman led a party of four on a chase the other night that was a lot like chasing after the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. The four were out riding, driving west, when a woman in the party suddenly sighted an unusual light against the night sky. It had all of the earmarks of a large barn aflame and when the woman vowed that she had seen flames shooting upward and sparks flying, the party headed in the general direction of the fire. They had driven several miles before they came to an elevation, and then discovered that the "fire" was the late and unusually bright afterglow of the sun set, still showing up after dark.

There will be no more banged fenders at "Safety Town" this season. Yesterday the 25 toy automobiles, traffic lights and stop signs were bundled in a store room at Johns park where they will remain until the "miniature city," where pre-school children are given traffic instructions, opens again on the playgrounds next summer.

The News-Journal may be just another newspaper to some of its readers, but to at least one it is a connecting link with the vide, wide world. . . . Young Jim Gorman, who has spent the summer at Camp Chikopi, 200 miles north of Toronto, Ont., was presented with a summer's subscription to The News-Journal, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gorman, 608 Cook road. In thanking them, he wrote: "I will be glad to get The News-Journal, because I like to keep in touch with world events."

Sheriff E. P. Long's deputies, who are called to settle a variety of complaints almost daily, yesterday needed a man who could swing a lasso and ride the range. Called to a home on Park avenue west road, they found two riding ponies feasting on a garden. Investigation revealed that the ponies had escaped from their corral at North Lake park and had gone on a foraging trip of their own. The officers solved their problem by ordering the ponies' keepers to take them back and tie them up.

Idaho Senator Says Thousands 'Urge' Him to Run; Meets With Farm Leader.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Senator Pope (D-Idaho), whose defeat in the recent Idaho Democratic primary was a major setback and surprise for the administration, said today he was considering entering the November election as an independent candidate.

The Idaho senator, an ardent supporter of President Roosevelt's program, declared he had received more than a thousand letters and phone calls urging him to run.

Will Meet Leaders.

He added in an interview that he probably would make up his mind within the next few weeks after consulting with officials here and Democratic leaders in Idaho.

Since returning here, Pope has talked with Secretary Wallace and other top-ranking administration officials.

His intimates said he had been promised support, if he runs as an independent, by Wallace, Secretary Ickes and Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) among others.

Friends of the senator attributed his defeat to participation of Republicans in the Idaho Democratic primary. Another factor was said to be the votes of farmers disappointed with the low wheat prices.

Pope received about 39,500 primary votes to 42,500 for Rep. D. Worth Clark, the winner who campaigned as a conservative Democrat. About 30,000 votes were cast in the Republic primary.

Because the Roosevelt administration always has polled greater strength in final elections than in primaries in Idaho, Pope supporters contend he would have an excellent chance in a three-cornered election contest with Clark and Donald Callahan, Republican nominee for the senate.

As co-author of the new crop control act, Pope has been mentioned for possible appointment to an executive place in the agriculture department in case he abandons his candidacy.

UNION SCHOOL CALLS ELECTION

Rural District Also Asking Bond Issue Vote Sept. 20 for $138,000 Building.

north of Five Points, as a site for the proposed building. Purchase of the land, owned by George Kissell, would be included in the $138,000 building cost, board members said.

Construction of the new school would provide for the consolidation of 10 one-room schools now in operation in Weller and Franklin townships, Supt. V. B. Moffett, of the Union schools, pointed out. It would house all high school pupils in the two-township district and the elementary pupils in the western half of the district, Moffett said.

If the new building is erected, the present high school building in Weller township would be remodeled to provide for the elementary pupils in the eastern half of the district, it was said.

The proposed new building would have 17 classrooms, a combination gymnasium and auditorium and a cafeteria. The firm of Althouse and Jones, Mansfield architects, drew plans for the building.

Approving the building plans, E. Dietrich, state director of education, said: "The inspectors from our department believe this project to be a necessary one, not in excess of the educational needs of the district, properly located, and properly designed in regard to size, arrangement and estimated cost."

The bond issue, which requires a 65 per cent vote for approval, calls for a 2.34 mills increase in the tax rate for 20 years, Supt. Moffett said. There are nearly 1,000 voters in the two precincts included in the district.

Ashland Seeks Special Vote on $165,000 Bond Plea.

ASHLAND—City council met in special session this morning and passed an emergency resolution requesting the state tax commission for permission to hold a special election on Sept. 21 for the purpose of submitting to voters a $165,000 bond issue.

The proposed bond issue would be supplemented by a $135,000 grant from WPA funds and the $200,000 would finance the building of a new sewage disposal plant and additions to the trunk line sewers of the city.

The special session was called this morning when councilmen were informed by George P. Gongwer, director of law, that in order to secure the federal grant the city must approve its bond issue before Sept. 30.

The city recently engaged an engineer to draw up plans for a new plant and these were recently approved by the state department.

SCHULTZ BONDSMAN LOCATED IN PRISON; FACES TRIAL CALL

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today located in a California prison a bondsman for the late Dutch Schultz who may be returned as a star witness against James J. Hines, Tammany Hall leader on trial charged with having sold political protection to the Schultz lottery mob.

The bondsman, Max Silverman, located through police fingerprint records, is serving a term of one to 14 years in San Quentin prison on a bad check charge. His possible entry into the Hines case became a sensation when it was reported that he had conferred with Schultz three hours before that mob leader was slain in a Newark, N. J., saloon in October, 1935, and that at the time Schultz was slain, he was going over the records of his payments for political protection.

Hines has been charged by Dewey, but corroborated so far only by one witness, that Schultz's protection money was paid to Hines, a powerful district leader of Tammany.

Dewey immediately messaged District Attorney Buron Fitts of Los Angeles requesting that he send a man to San Quentin and inquire whether Silverman would waive court proceedings and come here by plane to testify.

Silverman was the bondsman who arranged for Schultz to surrender in Albany when he was a fugitive on federal income tax charges, of which he later was acquitted. It was reported at the time that Schultz's gang was ready to put Silverman "on the spot" for having "played the boss for a sucker." But relationships warmed again when Schultz was acquitted and it was reported that Schultz died owing Silverman $6,000.

Dewey had previously sought Silverman as a witness and despaired of finding him.

The trial was in recess today until Monday.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Case of the Courts and a 13-Year-Old Stowaway Who Has Yen for the Seas

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Bobby Stap, the 13-year-old son of a sea cook, has just finished his fourth cruise as a stowaway and is now in the hands of the law as a parole violator.

He stowed away to Europe twice, then to Savannah, and [illegible] to the Caribbean on a 16-day cruise of the Santa Elena. His father follows the sea as ship's cook, and a keen psychologist might judge from the boy's conduct that he wants to be a sailor of some kind himself. It is just an idea, but worth exploring.

Now, it would be easy enough to see [illegible] sentence to be brought to this space, but I think I can charge no dollar and remark that [illegible] words of one syllable and of a note when [illegible] assumes that a kid is somehow classy as Wayward because of the age of 13 he has decided what he wants to do in life and reveals impatience to get started.

* * *

The British merchant marine takes younger boys than Bobby Stap into training ships for brief preliminary teaching in the manners and languages of the sea, and soon has them aboard sea boats bound out everywhere.

Just how useful boys may be on men-of-war, whether they get in the way or need babying, I have no knowledge beyond a recollection of one conspicuous case of childish heroism in the Battle of Jutland, in which a powder monkey named Jack Cornwell, holding the rate of boy, stood to the gun when he was helping to serve after a German shell had blown up the gun and most of the men working the gun.

* * *

Some brass at Deal or Beatty saw him there, mortally wounded himself but waiting to carry on, gave him a paragraph in the official report and put him up for a Victoria Cross, which the boy never saw, because he died of his injuries. The Cornwell V C and the story of the youngster's courage made great patriotic propaganda in Britain and the government of a nation which knows more than a few odds and ends about seafaring certainly drummed up the idea that when a boy is big enough he's old enough for the sea.

The Stap boy has a good report in all other respects, being bright, polite and fluent in two languages and although it might be rather hard on his mother to lose him to the sea so soon, this country is crowded with the proud descendants of boys who ran away to sea at about the same age a few generations ago.

* * *

The irony of the case is that educators put in their time year after year splashing education over hundreds of thousands of intelligent and amiable young drifters who haven't the faintest idea what they expect to try to do for a living after the meter readings say they have been educated up to the mark and are ready to go [illegible] and try.

[illegible] were thrown out of school too [illegible] for striking back at [illegible] while [illegible] between one line of work and another, [illegible] are about too [illegible] and the [illegible] enough to [illegible] early years. [illegible] not to [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] give a [illegible] who [illegible] trade [illegible] Bobby is hardly [illegible] to [illegible] ridicule on a mental habit of those who are supposed to know something about youth, who hold that a boy with a craving for a particular [illegible] be hoisted to the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] show of adventurous initiative.
